WELCOMING REMARKS

Tudorel TOADER

RECTOR OF THE ALEXANDRU IOAN CUZA UNIVERSITY of IAȘI

Distinguished guests,

It is a great pleasure and honour to welcome you at the Alexandru Ioan Cuza University of lasi to the EURINT International Conference 2016 "The Eastern Partnership under strain - time for a rethink?". The University of lasi is known throughout Romania and Eastern Europe for its research expertise and outstanding scientists and its constant interest in dealing with the countries from the Eastern neighbourhood of the European Union. Thanks to generous internationally-funded projects in European excellence networks, since 2000 we have managed to create a platform under the umbrella of the Centre for European Studies which fosters discussions and provides analytical research on the most up-to-date policy issues relating to the EU.

Due to our university unique geographic position, this platform gives us the opportunity to invite renowned international experts for discussing and finding solutions to some of the most pressing challenges the EU is facing, among others, the future of the countries positioned in the Eastern proximity of the European Union.

Since 2013, the EURINT conference series has established itself as one of the most visible academic events in the field of European Studies from Central and Eastern Europe and in this regard we are pleased to have managed to develop it into a traditional conference series. The EURINT conference package addresses those who show a genuine interest in enhancing their research skills in European Studies and in contributing to developing a transnational network of contacts and cooperation focusing on Central and Eastern Europe. We are also glad that we have among us such distinguished guests (Mr. Radek Sikorski, former Minister of Foreign Affairs of Poland, honourable professors, experts, young professionals, researchers and students) from over 20 countries, ready to challenge traditional lines of thought and, hopefully, seek to create in long term a network of young researchers and specialists in European Studies who will not only collaborate on future academic and civic projects, but also contribute to the spreading of European values and ideas in the neighbouring region. In this sense, the EURINT organising team will be more than happy to invite you to participate in various projects and initiatives meant to further keep you in close contact, because last, but not least, EURINT is about you, about the community you create and the indispensable role you play in shaping the European lines of thought and policies. As already members of this community, we encourage you to actively contribute to the debates, ask challenging questions and reflect on the future of the region.

I am confident that this two-day conference will create great impact and (re)shape the European and neighbouring policies. These include challenges such as the pressing security concerns from the Eastern Partnership region, the Ukrainian crisis, the ongoing tensions between the Euro-Atlantic community and Russia, the future of the EU's transformative power in the neighbourhood and the economic conundrum faced by the Eastern Partnership states.

I am sure that lasi is the "place" that receives, arms wide open, the creative energies and ideas. "The city on the seven hills", "just like Rome", as an old local poem depicts, it will serve – especially now in the month of May – as the perfect background and host for flourishing discussions.

Distinguished guests, it is with great excitement that I welcome you to the EURINT 2016 international conference. Welcome to our university, welcome to lasi and to its wonderful surroundings.

Gabriela Carmen PASCARIU

DIRECTOR OF THE CENTRE FOR EUROPEAN STUDIES - ALEXANDRU IOAN CUZA UNIVERSITY

Dear guests, colleagues and students,

On behalf of the Organising Committee, I am delighted to welcome you to the EURINT 2016 international conference "The Eastern Partnership under strain - time for a rethink?" hosted and organised by the Centre for European Studies of the University of Iasi. This event is generously supported by Erasmus+ Programme within the frame of Jean Monnet Project "The Eastern Partnership under strain - time for a rethink?" (EaPpeal) the Centre for European Studies has been awarded with.

The 2016 EURINT international conference series reaches an important milestone, its 5th edition. In this regard, this anniversary edition aims at drawing some of most relevant scholars, researchers, experts and civil society activists into a constructive exchange of views on whether we can still speak of the effectiveness of EU's normative power in the region and the efficiency of the Eastern Partnership in the light of the events in Ukraine.

The heart of the EURINT 2016 international conference consists of both interactive panels moderated and attended by our distinguished guests and of presentation sessions dedicated exclusively to our young researchers and professionals. Moreover, we are delighted to host during this year's conference Mr. Radek Sikorski, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Poland from 2007-2014. We could not thought of a better choice for our annual keynote speech. Mr. Sikorski, together with Carl Bildt, initiated the EU's Eastern Partnership.

The conference aims at transmitting knowledge about the EU's role in Eastern neighbourhood, a region of vital importance for all of us, which is currently under huge scrutiny, taking into account the Ukrainian crisis and latest tensions between the Euro-Atlantic community and Russia. Hence, we believe time is ripe for a detailed (re)consideration of the EU's neighbourhood instruments. In our view, a lack of in-depth inquiry into the factors at play might irreversibly sap the EU's role in the region. EURINT 2016 tries to fill a visible gap in the current debate and, thus, provide novel answers and raise awareness of the intrinsic and extrinsic challenges the EU faces when conceptualizing its strategy towards the Eastern proximity.

Taking into account Romania's experience gained in pre-accession period, we consider that regional cooperation between the specialists from universities/research institutes located in the border area is one of the key methods of creating interdependencies, promoting connections between public and private environment, institutions, attitudes and behaviours. I also believe the region where our conference takes place is significant, considering that lasi is one of the easternmost cities of the European Union, a very important academic centre for Romania and also a cradle of Romanian history and culture. Our city could not only serve as a bridge between the West and East, but also as a starting point for developing stronger connections between our country, the European Union and our Eastern European friends.

Thus, I really hope the EURINT conference will provide a unique opportunity to establish a platform of cooperation among those with a genuine interest in the future of the countries situated in the Eastern neighbourhood of the European Union. I also do hope that these days spent in our charming city will give you enough inspiration to build momentum for future projects and initiatives.

We have done our best to prepare this event and we hope that it will be a pleasant and useful experience both for its academic quality and for informal social networking. Hence, I am delighted to welcome you all to lasi at the Alexandru Ioan Cuza University and I would use this opportunity to thank our distinguished experts and participants for attending our event.

ABOUT EURINT CONFERENCE SERIES

Our annual conference series was re-branded in 2013 by the Centre for European Studies (CES) under the EURINT (EURopean INTegration) acronym in the frame of the Jean Monnet Life Long Learning Programme, following a long tradition of more than 11 international annual conferences dedicated to European Studies which started in 2005 at CES. Our annual conferences have established themselves as some of the most visible academic events in field of European Studies from Central and Eastern Europe. The conference package addresses those who show a genuine interest in enhancing their research skills in European Studies and in contributing to developing a transnational network of contacts and cooperation focusing on Central and Eastern Europe.

The academic programme has always been rich and diverse and the results of our efforts have been equally rewarding. For instance, according to the feedback received from our previous editions,

"EURINT 2014 has been an invaluable experience which helped me gather useful comments for my work and also come across many international experts dealing with the eastern neighbourhood of the EU" (Nadiia Bureiko, Bukovina State University, Chernivtsi, Ukraine, participant in EURINT 2014).

Or, "EURINT 2013 was my first experience in Romania. The students were very keen during the conference sessions and vivid while visiting lasi city. Fruitful open debates and their friendships were what I brought back. The staff kept in academic touch, in my case via evaluating a paper for publication. I wish them good luck for strengthening the backbone of a daring and exemplifying union of mankind ever, EU, via dialogue and exchange of ideas" (Masoud Imani Kalesar, Euronews, Lyon, France, participant in EURINT 2013)".

"I attended Eurint Conference in 2013 and I was positively surprised by the great interest of the students about the event. In addition to the relevant presentations of the lasi University's students, there was also a significant contribution of the international and foreign researchers, who analysed specific issues concerning EU, Eastern Europe and international relations" (Fabio INDEO, University of Camerino, Italy, participant in EURINT 2013)

EURINT 2016 CONFERENCE RATIONALE

EURINT 2016 seeks to be one of the most visible and relevant international events in the academic year 2015-2016, dealing with the EaP region. The conceptual framework of EURINT 2016 is centred on the EU 'actorness' topic. The ongoing turmoil from Ukraine is seriously testing the EU's capacity to effectively stand up to these regional challenges. Perhaps it is not surprising that in some circles the EU's approach towards the EaP region is perceived today as being not entirely comprehensive. The EU seems not fully capable of delivering meaningful results which could negatively impact, on the long-run, the EU's credentials in the region. Concurrently, in post-Soviet Eastern Europe, the EU has still not been able to fully accommodate the large spectrum of expectations stemming from the EaP states, instead vacillating in its discourse between exclusion and inclusion, between limited vs. potential full integration, move which has puzzled many of its observers. Last but not least, the pressing security concerns from the EaP region having the Ukrainian crisis as centrepiece are still unsettled which could damage the EU's presence in the neighbourhood as an important player for the near future. Hence, we believe time is ripe for a detailed reconsideration of the EU's neighbourhood instruments which could, ultimately, contribute to a readjustment of the EaP to the present challenges.

EURINT 2016 is co-funded by the Erasmus+ Programme within the frame of Jean Monnet Project "The Eastern Partnership under strain - time for a rethink?" (EaPpeal). The EaPpeal project aims at assessing the implications of the latest events from the Eastern vicinity on the resilience and the viability of the Eastern Partnership.

...touch upon the following themes:

Explaining the effectiveness and relevance of the EaP

Some relevant questions: Is it really possible to have a detailed reconsideration of the EU's neighbourhood instruments in relation to its Eastern neighbours? Adjusting the nonadjustable: has the EU perhaps miscalculated its strategy in the region from its very first steps? Has the conceptualization/design of the ENP/EaP been flawed from the very beginning? What about the EaP's institutional set-up? Will the implementation of the ENP review really make a difference?

Testing EU international 'actorness'

Some relevant questions: The perception that the EU is lacking a comprehensive approach towards the EaP region exists. Could this negatively impact, on the long-run, the EU's credentials in the region? Could we still speak of an European 'transformative power' in its near abroad? Could the EU still reach out to the EaP countries? Has the current Ukrainian crisis irreversibly affected EU's 'actorness'? What new theoretical propositions could be envisaged for framing the EaP?

Regional geopolitics and the implications of the Ukrainian debacle

Some relevant questions: The pressing security concerns from the EaP region, the tensions between the Euro-Atlantic community are still unsettled. Could we witness future regional spill-over effects? Is the EU's 'soft power' approach still valid today when confronted with a revival of Realist consideration and Cold War type-rivalries? How can we explain Russia's role in the region? Under which conditions an agreement between the Euro-Atlantic community and Russia can be reached?

The economic 'gamble' of the Eastern neighbourhood

Some relevant questions: How realistic are the prospects of economic growth for the EaP states which signed the AA? What about the ones who have been left outside the AA framework? Does the DCFTA bring added value? Is the full implementation of the DCFTAs achievable? In economic terms, are the diplomatic rows between Russia and the EU over the DCFTA justifiable? Is the DCFTA between EU and Ukraine negatively impacting Russia's economy?

Societal implications of the cooperation between the EU and EaP states

Some relevant questions: Did cooperation between EU-EaP countries visibly increase the role of the civil society? What about perceptions vis-à-vis the EU in the EaP societies? What are the attitudes towards European integration? Under which conditions can the EU hold sway over political elites and societal actors? How can the EU further increase its appeal to the wider population?

ABOUT ALEXANDRU IOAN CUZA UNIVERSITY OF IASI

Prestige

Alexandru Ioan Cuza University of Iasi is the oldest higher education institution in Romania. Since 1860, the university has been carrying on a tradition of excellence and innovation in the fields of education and research. With over 26.000 students and 800 academic staff, the university enjoys high prestige at national and international level and cooperates with over 250 universities worldwide. Alexandru Ioan Cuza University is a member of some of the most important university networks and associations: the Coimbra Group, EUA -

European University Association, Utrecht Network, International Association of Universities, University Agency of Francophony and the Network of Francophone Universities (RUFAC). These partnerships offer us the opportunity to experience changes, to have student and teacher mobilities and joint academic, research and strategy programmes.

Innovation

Our University became the first student-centered university in Romania, once the Bologna Process was implemented. We believe in the power of individual choice and customized education. Thus, we became the first Romanian university to offer students the opportunity to choose both a major and a minor field of study, in a combination at their choice, which best suits their career goals.

Excellence

Research at our university is top level. In 2012, for the third year in a row, Alexandru Ioan Cuza University was placed first in the national research ranking compiled on the basis of Shanghai criteria. Our teachers are involved in over 400 national and international research projects, with the logistic support of 24 research centres. Striving for excellence, the university takes unique initiatives to stimulate research quality, to encourage dynamic and creative education and to involve its best students in academic life.

ABOUT THE CENTRE FOR EUROPEAN STUDIES

The Centre for European Studies (CES) has been established by the PHARE programme and it organizes programmes and initial and advanced training courses in different areas of European studies. It participates to programmes of national and international cooperation regarding research and the dissemination of information about the EU and the integration process, it develops mobility programmes for students and teachers, it promotes public-private partnership and debates on European issues, cooperating with public institutions, professors and researchers from Romanian academic centres as well as from other academic centres situated in EU member states.

CES's mission is to contribute to the development of the European dimension of education, to promote research and consultancy, information, documentation in the area of European studies and to, directly and indirectly, support the process of economic and social development in the North-East region of Romania. The main goal is to contribute to a better knowledge and understanding of the process of integration, in its different aspects, of the standards for Romania's participation in this process and of the place and role of the European Union in the world.

In this goal we develop education, training and research programmes and we organise different scientific events. As major fields of interest, the institution is focused on European economy, European policies, internal market, trade, interregional and trans-border cooperation etc.

We are also interested to intensify our research concerning the issues of regional development in the subjects of interest for the convergence of regions as: disparities, cohesion, the centre-periphery model, secondary growth poles, international specialization and competitivity, tourism and regional development, foreign direct investments, migration, local and regional governance, European cohesion policy, cross-border cooperation and European Neighbourhood Policy.

All these confirm, beyond the limits and difficulties inherent to any beginning, the Centre's dynamics and the involvement potential in encouraging the European dimension of education and university research, as well as in disseminating knowledge about European integration. The Centre for European Studies has promoted the integration of the university in the national and international networks, it cooperates with national institutions, universities and researchers, it participates actively in international cooperation programmes and mobility by developing cooperative relationships with universities, training centres and organizations from EU and Eastern Neighbourhood.

CES scientific publications

Eastern Journal of European Studies (EJES) is a biannual academic journal and seeks to provide a forum for multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary dialogue between ideas and a framework for theoretical and empirical analyses covering major areas of subjects in the European studies field: European history, politics, European economy and European policies, EU community law, European culture and society.

ABOUT IASI CITY

lasi City is one of the oldest and one of the most important sites of the country, where there has always been strongly pulsated authentic Romanian life. The City, which is the Moldavian Capital, gave inestimable material and spiritual values to national patrimony, and has drawn glorious pages in the history of the country, lasting remained in people conscience.

Situated closely to the East bounds of Romania, lasi will be after the integration, a main development pole of the East part of European Union. Important University Centre, with over 60.000 students annually in 5 public Universities and 3 private Universities (Alexandru Ioan Cuza University being one of the oldest from the country). Representative Cultural Centre ("Cultural Capital of Romania" - saying frequently used) and Historical Centre (in 2008 will be celebrated 600 years of lasi documentary attestation).

City with an impressive cultural and religious patrimony - over 50 churches, e.g. The "Three Hierarchies" Church, symbol of the City (Nicolae lorga said that: "Iasi is first of all, a church - The churches Church of our past"). Multicultural City, where numerous Foreign Cultural Centres activates (French Centre, German Centre, Centre of Latin America, British Council) and also there can be found the Italian Community and Jewish Community.

Tourism

The Cultural Capital of Romania is presenting you its jewels: memorial houses, cultural centres, theatres, opera, philharmonic, museums, monuments, libraries and mass-media, all of them sketching an activity of international level. Iasi is a strong mass-media pole which includes all kinds of media from this century. Through its deep cultural characteristic, lasi recognizes its impressive past and it looks for a favourable development direction.

Philharmonics: on October the 9th, 1942 Institution with permanent artistically activity, the public "Moldova" Philharmonics from lasi had the inauguration concert, under George Enescu baguette. The building belonged to Alecu Bals treasurer, had been raised up around 1815's, and it was built in a neo-classical style specific to the end of XVIIIth century and the beginning of XIXth century.

National Theatre: built up in lasi, between 1894 and 1896, on the place of the old City Hall, the building of National Theatre is considered to be the oldest and the most beautiful bezel of this kind from the whole country. The building plans belong to the famous Viennese architects Fellner and Helmer, who designed similar buildings in Vienna, Prague, Odessa, Zurich. Inaugurated once with the theatre, the electrical factory of this theatre marked the beginning of the electrical lighting in lasi.

- OPERA: started to function from the beginning of XIXth century. In December 1833 took place the first performance tour "La Dame Blanche" by Francois Adrien Boieldieu, play from French Theatre, in staging Baptiste and Joseph Fourreaux brothers. On February the 20th, 1838 took place the premiere in Romanian, with V.Bellini's "Norma" only after 7 years from the absolute first-night.
- Cultural Palace: Even it is not build over the ancient basements, as it was supposed to be at the beginning of the XXth century, the Palace's documentary mentioned in 1434, is raised in part, over the medieval ruins of lordly courts. There were also partially used the old palace basements, from the ruler Alexandru Moruzi (1806-1812) time, restored by Mihail Sturza (1841-1843). From the beginnings, the Palace inherited the legend of those 365 rooms, corresponding to the days of the year. The Edifice raised between 1906 and 1925 represents the most significant creation of the Romanian architect I.D. Berindei, trained up at Parisian school. From decorative point of view, it is remarked in the central hall a figurative mosaic, where are concentrically disposed different gothic best arum representations: the two-headed, the eagle, the dragon, the griffin, the lion. It was founded a skylight over the hall, where it was initially arranged a glass house. The building inauguration was realized on 1925.

Barboi Church: built between 1841-1844 on the foundation of an old church dating back to 1615. The Byzantine interior was built from rock and brick. The portico, held by Doric columns, is created in Classical style, while the spire presents neo-Gothic Roman elements. Because of its form and dimensions, Barboi Church is the Moldavian replica of some similar buildings on Mount Athos.

The Metropolitan Cathedral: the plan for this church was designed by the architects Johann Freywald and Bucher.

The works took place first between 1833-1839 and then between 1880-1887, this time following the plans of the Romanian architect, Alexandru Orascu. The painting of the cathedral was done by Gheorghe Tattarescu. It was inaugurated on April, 23rd 1887, at this event also taking part King Carol I and Bishop losif Naniescu. In 1889 the relics of Saint Paraschiva were brought from Three Hierarchs Church to the new cathedral.

Golia Monastery: old foundation from the 16th century of chancellor loan Golia, the church was restored at other dimensions by sovereign Vasile Lupu between 1650-1653 and finished by his son. The monastery is surrounded by a high wall, with spires at the corners raised in 1667 and a steeple tower restored in 1900 The tower of Golia is 30 m height. The visitor who wants to have a panorama of the city has to climb 120 stairs. The tower is one of city's symbols. During 1943-1947 restoration works took place at Golia, the monastery's church being reopened after that. In 1955, in two rooms on the Eastern part of the precinct. "Creanga" Museum was inaugurated, with documentary materials regarding the life of the great writer which was curate of monastery's church.

Cetatuia Monastery: was built by sovereign Gheorghe Duca between 1669-1672. At the beginning, the church was surrounded by high rock walls, with bulwarks and a guard road, entrance and corner towers. What makes Cetatuia unique is that it has maintained the whole ensemble of monastic architecture. On the Southern part of the precinct stands the Gothic Room "Doamna Anastasia". The royal palace is a fortified building from the 17th century. The steeple tower and the massiveness of the walls are proving the fact that the monastery was conceived also as a refuge place, being in case of need, a real fortress. The monastery's church is specific for the religious Moldavian architecture of the 17th century. "Three Hierarchs" Monastery: the most beautiful foundation of sovereign of Vasile Lupu, prince of Moldavia, built between 1637-1639. During 1882-1904 restoration works took place under the supervision of the French architect Lecomte de Nouy. The exterior decorations completely covering the building were gilded at the beginning, and combine Turkish, Arab, Georgian, Armenian and Persian elements with Romanian architectural motives in a wonderful rock lace. Over 30 registers of decorative motifs can be noticed.

Galata Monastery: built between 1579-1584 by prince

Petre Schiopul. The first church of the monastery was ruined after a short time, this fact determining the founder to build a second church on the hill dominating Nicolina river valley, in 1583. As regards the name of the monastery, some historians believe that it comes from the name of Galata neighbourhood in Constantinople. The interior painting was destroyed in 1762 during a blaze and it was repainted in 1811 by Vasile Dubrovski.

- "Saint Sava" Church: the first information dates from 1583, when a little church was built. In 1625, boyar Enache Caragea built the present "Saint Sava" church, in Oriental style. Between 1676-1678 the wall surrounding the monastery was built. Destroyed by time, the church was restored in two important steps: in 1820, when it was completely rebuilt and in 1844, when it was renewed. However, the monastery preserved its original Byzantine character of the 17th century, unique in the Moldavian architecture.
- "Saint Nicholas" Church: It was built at the initiative of sovereign Stefan cel Mare between June 1491 and August 1492. It is considered to be the oldest religious edifice preserved in lasi until now. The today's church is that of 1904. The restoration works were led by the French architect Lecomte du Nouv.
- The Catholic Cathedral: first built from wood in 1753, on the place of an older church. Between 1782-1789, the church was rebuilt from brick and it remained so until these days. In time, it has suffered some restoration works, especially after the 1802's earthquake and the blaze in 1827. In 1861, at the initiative of bishop losif Salandri, some new works of restoration and extension were made and the interior of the church was painted by Giuseppe Carta from Palermo.

The Armenian Church: testifies the existence of an important Armenian community in these parts of Romania. Restored in 1803, this halidom lodges an array of rocks with inscriptions, one of them certifying the beginnings of the building in 1385 by Macar. In 1451 the church was endowed with a Gospel written and illustrated in Caffa from Crimeea, 100 years before.

The Great Synagogue: It was built between 1659-1670, it is the oldest of Jewish praying houses in Romania. If in exterior it is very simple, without any decorations, the interior is as sophisticated as possible, decorated and gifted with valuable objects: chandeliers, candlesticks.

EaPpeal Project seeks to confer a sound framework for policy debate with regards to the Eastern Partnership region. With the overall goal of adding value to our own research and dissemination efforts vis-à- vis the eastern neighbourhood of the EU and the broader post- Soviet space, EaPpeal intends to be one of most visible projects dedicated to the EaP region in both size and scope during the current academic year 2015-2016. EaPpeal project has been conceived as an answer to the increasing demand to provide novel answers and raise awareness of the intrinsic and extrinsic challenges both the EU and the EaP face in a changed geopolitical context market by instability, territorial tensions and armed conflict.
